

Allison Winston

Allison Winston is an educator for the Hapara team. She has over a decade of teaching and thought leadership experience at the secondary, college, and university levels. Allison was also an early GAFE adopter and has trained thousands of students and teachers to be successful using these and other tech-based learning tools. Allison has taught Language Arts and Composition to students ages 11 to 75, received numerous teaching awards, and has been recognized for her innovative and transformative use of technology in the classroom. She now works with school leaders and educators around the world to share best practices related to meaningful edtech adoption and transformative pedagogy.
